People affected by displacement may be forced to abandon their homes and livelihoods, and often lose enjoyment of a range of rights.

In 2018 the Norwegian Refugee Council (NRC) assisted 1 196 142 people with information, counselling and legal assistance. Today, NRC assists displaced people through face-to-face contact. The delivery of assistance is limited by time, resources available, access constraints and geography. Digital innovation has the potential to create solutions that can overcome these obstacles.

NRC wants to have a dialogue with businesses and people who can contribute to better solutions - both digitally and with the face-to-face solution.
